Express while you're getting on with other tasks. This saves valuable time, which you can then use to do other things.
- Relaxed
Sit down and relax while you express, without the need to actively hold the pumpsets in position the whole time. This can help to increase your milk volume.
- Multi-tasking
With your hands free you can complete other tasks while expressing, such as working on the computer, reading, making phone calls or looking after your baby.
- Pleasant and comfortable
The milk cups are lightweight and the breast shells are made from soft and comfortable silicone.

- Increased milk volume with additional massage or stimulation
Since the pump is hands-free, you can perform breast massage or manual stimulation during expressing, which can increase milk production. With the collection cups concealed under your shirt during expressing, you won't be tempted to constantly check or monitor the volume of expressed milk. For many women, this takes a lot of stress out of the process, which means they can relax and therefore increase their milk volume.

Wearable & discreet

- Discreet
The pumpset is concealed in a nursing bra, so you can express more discretely and inconspicuously than with conventional pumpsets, even while in the same room as other people.
- Strengthen your bond with your baby
The Ardo Hands-Free Double Pumpset allows you to hold your baby, interact with them or feed them while expressing. This can increase your oxytocin level and thus strengthen your bond and relationship.
- Suitable for all
The collection cups have space for up to 180 ml / 6 oz, so they are also suitable for mothers with large milk volumes.
